

STEPHEN C. BRANDEBURA, Bat Biologist

EDUCATION

Enrolled Arkansas State University, Jonesboro, Arkansas 2009 Biology
 B.S. Arkansas Tech. University, Russellville, Arkansas 2002 Fisheries and Wildlife Biology

PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

2009-Present Bat Biologist, Western EcoSystems Technology, Inc., Laramie, Wyoming
 2004-2009 Wildlife Researcher, Arkansas State University, Jonesboro, Arkansas
 2007 Cave Biology Intern, Missouri Department of Conservation, Jefferson City, Missouri
 2003 Small Mammal Researcher, Wyoming Natural Diversity Database, Laramie, Wyoming
 2000-2001 Field Researcher, U.S. Forest Service, Hot Springs, Arkansas
 2000 Field Researcher, University of Arkansas at Monticello, Monticello, Arkansas

PUBLICATIONS

R. Tumilson, D.B. Sasse, T. Klotz, and S.C. Brandebura. 2009. Eastern range extension of the North American Badger (Taxidea taxus). In Progress
Brandebura, S.C. and T.S. Risch. 2009. Southwestern extension of the breeding range of the Indian bat (Myotis sodalis). Southwestern Naturalist. In Review
Brandebura, S.C., R.E. Medlin Jr., and T.S. Risch. 2006. New evidence for maternity colonies of the Indiana bat (Myotis sodalis) in the delta of Arkansas. Journal of the Arkansas Academy of Science 60: 169-170.
 Fokidis H.B., S.C. Brandebura, and T.S. Risch. 2005. Distributions of bats in bottomland hardwood forests of the Arkansas delta region. Journal of the Arkansas Academy of Science 59:51-56.
 Medlin, R.E. Jr, S.C. Brandebura, H.B. Fokidis, and T.S. Risch. 2006. Distribution of Arkansas's bottomland bats. Journal of the Arkansas Academy of Science 60: 189-191.

PRESENTATIONS

Brandebura, S.C. Autumn roost trees of the Indiana bat (Myotis sodalis). Arkansas State University Graduate Scholars Day. April, 2009. Arkansas State University, State University, Arkansas.
Brandebura, S.C., R.E. Jr. Medlin, and T.S. Risch. New evidence for maternity colonies of the Indiana bat in the delta of Arkansas. Arkansas Academy of Science 90th Annual Meeting. April, 2006. Lyon College, Batesville, Arkansas.
Brandebura, S.C. and T.S. Risch. Roost tree use by male Indiana bats at a hibernacula near the Southwestern extreme of their range. Arkansas Chapter of the Wildlife Society, Annual Fall Meeting. March, 2006. Harrison, Arkansas.
Brandebura, S.C. and T.S. Risch. Roost tree use by male Indiana bats at a hibernacula near the southwestern extreme of their range. 11th Annual Meeting of the Southeastern Bat Diversity Network and 16th Colloquium on Conservation of Mammals in the Southeastern United States. February, 2006. Chattanooga, Tennessee.
Brandebura, S.C., H.B. Fokidis, and T.S. Risch. Distribution of bats in bottomland hardwood forests of the Arkansas delta region. Arkansas Academy of Science 89th Annual Meeting. April, 2005. Hendrix College, Conway, Arkansas.
Brandebura, S.C., H.B. Fokidis, and T.S. Risch. Distribution of bats in bottomland hardwood forests of the Arkansas delta region. 2005 Joint Annual Meeting of Arkansas Chapter AFS, Arkansas Chapter TWS, US Forest Service, and Society of Arkansas Foresters. February, 2005. Arkansas Tech University, Russellville, Arkansas.
Brandebura, S.C., H.B. Fokidis, and T.S. Risch. Distribution of bats in bottomland hardwood forests of the Arkansas delta region. 10th Annual Meeting of the Southeastern Bat Diversity Network and 15th Colloquium on Conservation of Mammals in the Southeastern United States. February, 2005. Paris Landing State Park, Paris Landing, Tennessee.
 Prescott, S., H.B. Fokidis, S.C. Brandebura, and T.S. Risch. Roosting ecology of male Indiana bats in the Ozark National Forest. 10th Annual Meeting of the Southeastern Bat Diversity Network and 15th Colloquium on Conservation of Mammals in the Southeastern United States. February, 2005. Paris Landing State Park, Paris Landing, Tennessee.

SCIENTIFIC ORGANIZATION MEMBERSHIPS

American Society of Mammalogist
Southeastern Bat Diversity Network